

THE CARL L. BECKER HOUSE
WELCOMES SCIENCE GUY EXTRAORDINAIRE

Bill Nye

Visiting:
October 16th –22nd

Nye was born in 1955, in Washington, D.C. He graduated from Cornell University's Sibley School of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering in 1977 with a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. At Cornell, he studied under Carl Sagan, who is also well known for popularizing science. Nye got his television start performing on a Seattle-area sketch comedy show called Almost Live!, and appeared regularly on the show for many seasons. He left the show to start producing Bill Nye the Science Guy in 1992.
