

THE CARL L. BECKER HOUSE
WELCOMES RENOWNED PHOTOGRAPHERS

Robert and Shana ParkeHarrison

Robert ParkeHarrison constructs stories of healing and restoration amid landscapes scarred by technology and overuse. In Herculean actions that are both humorously metaphorical and lyrically poetic, ParkeHarrison constructs beguiling stories that gently remind us to consider the state of our one and only earth. At the center of each of his pictorial tales is a lone individual—ParkeHarrison himself as “Everyman”—the “Architect’s” brother. This suit-clad figure patches holes in the sky, creates rain machines, chases storms to create electricity, and communicates with the land to learn of its needs. His wife, Shana, collaborates with him to produce the work.
